Economic Outlook

The New World (Dis)Order

By: James R. Solloway, CFA, Chief Market Strategist and Senior Portfolio Manager

SEI recently released its first-quarter Economic Outlook. A summary of the conclusions is provided below:

- The Russian war against Ukraine is a seminal event that has worsened the shortages and inflation pressures already felt as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Even if peace breaks out tomorrow, Russia will be isolated economically and become dependent on China, financially and economically.
- The US Federal Reserve and other central banks have no choice but to transition from supporting economic growth with extremely expansive monetary policies to fighting inflation with higher interest rates and quantitative tightening.
- In early November, the Canadian two-year Treasury note held a 60 basis-point advantage over the comparable U.S. Treasury security. At the end of March, the yields were almost exactly the same.
- Inflation in Canada is accelerating just as dramatically as in the U.S. While the core inflation rate tends to run a bit lower than in the U.S., Canada's latest year-on-year reading of 4.8% as of February is nonetheless the highest in more than 30 years.
- Fears of a recession in the US and Europe this year or next appear misplaced, although growth will likely be slower than had been anticipated prior to the invasion. The odds of recession will climb beyond next year, however, as global interest rates adjusted for inflation rise and the financial positions of households and business deteriorate.
- Equity markets rebounded surprisingly sharply during the closing weeks of March, highlighting the resiliency and adaptability of publicly-traded companies. Despite this, investors should continue to expect more volatility and mixed equity performance as a result of war uncertainty, stubbornly high inflation and tighter monetary policies.
- The threat of stagflation is a possibility. In the 1970s, similar economic conditions saw value equities, small-cap stocks and commodities among the best-performing asset classes, while bonds and stocks with high earnings multiples lagged badly. While the past is not necessarily prologue, SEI notes that the bestperforming areas in the year-to-date have been commodities, commodity equities, value-oriented equities and defensive sectors.
- From the years-long COVID pandemic and supply-chain shocks to inflation and war, the world is an unpredictable place where events both far from home and right in your neighbourhood can sometimes have dramatic effects on financial markets. Unsettled times further reinforce our belief in diversification as a sound investment strategy.

A full-length paper is available if you wish to learn more about these timely topics.

Important Information

SEI Investments Canada Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of SEI Investments Company, is the Manager of the SEI Funds in Canada.

The information contained herein is for general and educational information purposes only and is not intended to constitute legal, tax, accounting, securities, research or investment advice regarding the Funds or any security in particular, nor an opinion regarding the appropriateness of any investment. This commentary has been provided by SEI Investments Management Corporation ("SIMC"), a U.S. affiliate of SEI Investments Canada Company. SIMC is not registered in any capacity with any Canadian regulator, nor is the author, and the information contained herein is for general information purposes only and is not intended to constitute legal, tax, accounting, securities, or investment advice, nor an opinion regarding the appropriateness of any investment. You should not act or rely on the information contained herein without obtaining specific legal, tax, accounting and investment advice from qualified professionals. This information should not be construed as a recommendation to purchase or sell a security, derivative or futures contract. You should not act or rely on the information contained herein without obtaining specific legal, tax, accounting and investment advice from an investment professional. This material represents an assessment of the market environment at a specific point in time and is not intended to be a forecast of future events, or a guarantee of future results. There is no assurance as of the date of this material that the securities mentioned remain in or out of the SEI Funds.

This material may contain "forward-looking information" ("FLI") as such term is defined under applicable Canadian securities laws. FLI is disclosure regarding possible events, conditions or results of operations that is based on assumptions about future economic conditions and courses of action. FLI is subject to a variety of risks, uncertainties and other factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from expectations as expressed or implied in this material. FLI reflects current expectations with respect to current events and is not a guarantee of future performance. Any FLI that may be included or incorporated by reference in this material is presented solely for the purpose of conveying current anticipated expectations and may not be appropriate for any other purposes.

There are risks involved with investing, including loss of principal. Diversification may not protect against market risk. There may be other holdings which are not discussed that may have additional specific risks. In addition to the normal risks associated with investing, international investments may involve risk of capital loss from unfavourable fluctuation in currency values, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles or from economic or political instability in other nations. Emerging markets involve heightened risks related to the same factors, in addition to those associated with their relatively small size and lesser liquidity. Bonds and bond funds will decrease in value as interest rates rise.

Information contained herein that is based on external sources is believed to be reliable, but is not guaranteed by SEI Investments Canada Company, and the information may be incomplete or may change without notice.

Commissions, trailing commissions, management fees and expenses all may be associated with mutual fund investments. Please read the prospectus before investing. Mutual funds are not guaranteed, their values change frequently and past performance may not be repeated.